Theda Bara, Famous "Vamp" Of Old, To Be Heard Tuesday

Star Of Silent Films Set On "For Men Only" Show; Judy Garland Turns Comedienne For Program

Theda Bara, traditional "vamp" of the old silent movies, will be introduced to a new generation of screen fans in an interview by Fred Uttal, master of ceremonies, on the For Men Only program Tuesday. She and other personalities will be heard over WEAF at 8:30 p. m. Miss Bara, who is in retirement now, won her appellation as a "vamp" when she appeared with Edmund Jose in a screen adaptation of Rudyard Kipling's familiar poem, "A Fool There Was."

She also was the screen's first Cleopatra. Others to be heard in interviews will be Al Pearce, head of his own gang in the popular NBC comedy and musical program; Major George Fielding Eliot, author of the best seller, "The Ramparts We Watch," and Donald Bain, who imitates anything that makes a noise.
