TWO DIVORCE

Two divorce suits were filed Wednesday with Clerk of Courts J. Leonard Schnabel.

In her petition, filed by Viola Stevens as next friend, Bonnie Nelson, a minor, charges Frank Nelson with gross neglect and asks alimony and custody of their year-old son, Frank, Jr. They were married Jan. 11, 1938, at Decatur, Ind., according to the plaintiff.

Gordon H. Foulk accuses his wife, Violet D. Foulk, to whom he was married Nov. 1, 1924, of gross neglect. They have no children, the petition says.

last times Wednesday are 'My Son, My Son!" and Twenty Mule Team."

Third of the popular series, The Secret of Dr. Kildare," commencing Wednesday at the Lyric, deals with the excursion of Dr. Jimmy Kildare into the detective field to solve the mystery of the strange mental complex of a beautiful girl. Showing for the last times Tuesday are "Winter Carnival" and "Tho Housekeeper's Daughter."

"All This and Heaven Too," now at the Ohio theatre, stars Bette Davis and Charles Beyer in one of the top love stories of the year. The strange story of the despicable wife, and the tolerant husband and kind governess, all inolved in a scandal that rocked France, is told in the picture.

Jean Muir is featured with Warren William in "The Lone Wolf Meets a Lady" now at the Quilna theatre. The lovely blonde actress is cast as a murder suspect who persuades the Lone Wolf to assume the blame until he can free her from suspicion. Also showing is "Out West With the Meile Oberon, the dark, flashing-eyed English beauty, is the star of the Sigma feature, "Over the Moon," the story of a newly rich girl who decides to see the world. Star of the co-feature. "Murder in the Air," is Ronald Reagan, adventurous secret service man on the trail of new and dangerous international criminals.

The most charming crook in all filmdom has returned to the Quilna theatre with "The Lone Wolf Meets A Lady." Warren William again portrays the light-fingered light-hearted rogue and Jean Muir is the lady in the case.

The case itself is one of the best of all the Lone Wolf adventures, a tense and exciting drama of a $100,000 diamond necklace, hedged about with murder and intrigue. Michael Lanyard, the Lone Wolf, enters into the situation after the iewels have been stolen from pretty Miss Muir and the police are on her trail for murder.

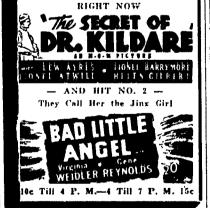

Lone Wolf comes to the rescue and with his usual audacity, he proreeds to flout both cops and crooks alike as he sets after the real murderer. In a dramatic and actionfilled climax, the Lone Wolf, assisted by Eric Blore as his faithful butler, delivers the real culprits into the arms of the police. The fine supporting cast includes Warren Hull, Victor Jory, Roger Pryor and Robert Emmett Keane, all of whom do their share in making "The Lone Wolf Meets A Lady" one of the most enjoyable melodramas of the screen.

SIGMA

Now showing at the Sigma i the romance, "Over The Moon," which provides motion picture fans with one of the brightest and liveliest screen productions of the new season. Filmed beautifully in Technicolor, the new picture stars Merle Oberon in one of her finest roles to date in a story that is picked with thrills and excitement, with high comedy and stirring drama, with crisp dialogue and laugh-filled episodes.

Miss Oberon portrays a sophisticated heiress who races from one exciting episodes to another, the while she carries a torch for handsome Rex Harrison, the leading man in the picture. In support of Miss Oberon and Harrison, "Over The Moon" features Louis Borell. Robert Douglas, Ursula Jeans, Zena Dare, Peter Haddon, Herbert Lomas and David Tree.

Briefly, the story concerns the adventures and romances of a Yorkshire girl who inherits several million dollars upon the death of her grandfather and proceeds to see how the idle rich live. Her plan is frowned upon by the man to whom she is engaged and he bows out while she goes on to a life of utter frivolity and gayety in Paris and Monte Carlo. When she en counters a strange young man who is even richer than she is, she realizes the utter futility of her glittering life and she decides to go after the man she really loves. How she wins him back provides the picture with a smash climax.

The story moves with tempo and suspense, with its gay and witty action centered in London, Paris Monte Carlo and the Swiss Alps. In addition to settings of spectacular beauty in natural color, the picture presents Miss Oberon in impressive array of clothes. If you like screen entertainment that moves swiftly, "Over The Moon" is heartily recommended. "Murder in the Air," hailed as one of the year's most thrilling pictures, is scheduled to open Wednesday at the Sigma. The new film stars Ronald Reagan, who appears as Brass Bancroft, the fearless secret service operator who must battle a group of ruthless espionage agents in order to uncover the secrets of a terrifying death ray. The action-drama is timely, for it deals with the attempts of subversive organizations to undermine our American democracy by secur-
