Radio News and Programs Dairy Prizes

The 10th anniversary of CBS network's prize-winning "Let's Pretend" program for children is cause for a triple celebration. For director Nila Mack (left), it was her 10th anniversary as the program's mentor and her 10th as a member of the CBS staff. For two of her earliest proteges, Estelle Levy (center) and Pat Ryan, both veterans of 10 years on the program, it was their 12th year as child radio stars. Here they are showing Nila how they looked in 1928.

Given Today at State Fair

MILWAUKEE - Three grand sweepstake prizes in the dairy division and a grand prize over all paintings in the art show were awarded on the opening day of the nine-day Wisconsin State fair which opened today in Milwaukee, Three manufacturers of dairy products will receive large silver rups at the night program before the grandstand on dairy day. They are winners of the governor's sweepstakes, the highest dairy manufacturer's honor in the state. Perry I. McHenry, Viroqua, buttermaker at the cooperative creamery of that city, won the Wisconsin sweepstakes in butter for the third time in fair history. His prize butter scored 96 points. Grand sweepstakes for American cheese went to Erhardt Brandt Kewaunee, whose cheeese scored 9714. In the foreign types of cheese grand award went to Nick Willi, Argyle, whose product scored 97½.

The grand prize in the 1948 art show in the new art gallery, was awarded to Hjalmar A. Skuldt, 107 W. Doty st., Madison, on his oil painting "Lunch in the Field." Skuldt is an amateur artist, He won over exhibits including 1,000 canvasses which were judged by John Steuart Curry, Madison, University of Wisconsin artist in resi-

Second grand prize, professional or amateur, in entire show best portraying Wisconsin rural life, is Schomer Lichter, 2619 N. Downer, Milwaukee; third, Roland Stebbins, Madison, associate professor of art education at the university,

First prizes in classes were won by the following:

Royce A. Pendleton, 1117 Erin st., isn't sorry he joined the army, he wrote in a card received today by Sgt. Norman S. Cluxton, recruiting officer in the Madison federal bldg.

Pendleton enlisted here July 16 and was assigned to the signal corps at Ft. Sheridan, Ill.

"I thought I would drop you a line and tell you that army life is swell," he wrote. "Tell the boys that the army isn't as bad as they think. I am not sorry that I joined.
