A LITTLE SATURDAY TALK:

Venus has been called "the earth's sister planet," That is a good name because Venus is almost the same size as the earth, Clara Kempen, mother, West Deand because it comes closer to us placed by men of the same grade than any other of the nine chief planets.

There are times when a "transit need hospitalization, who are to of Venus" takes place. When such nelius Lanigan, father, Mazomanie. a thing happens, the planet gets in the way of the sun, going from Mirandy E. Novak, mother, Hanone side of it to the other. If a person holds up a dark glass, he can watch Venus passing across the "face" of the sun. It looks like a small black spot.

Transits of Venus seldom take place. Two of them happened in the eighteenth century, and two in the nineteenth century. Sad to say, there will be no transit of Venus during the twentieth century. The next one is due on June 8, 2004, which will be during the twenty-first century.

With that sight 60 years, one month and two days distant, we may feel that we are not well treated in this matter. Yet today I have a letter from a woman who place. Two of them happened in kee.

saw the last transit, back in the listed men in the armed forces. year 1882, and we can, in a sense, see it through her eyes. The letter is from Mrs. Joanna Eppens Smith and she was a school teacher at the time. She writes:

"With all my fourth and fifth grade pupils, and with many pupils of other grades, I watched the transit of Venus on Dec. 6, 1882, in the bright sunlight of a perfect day.

"When the noon hour arrived, the event had been in progress for some time. As it proceeded, we were thrilled to see, through smoked glass, how the lovely planet passed before the brilliant face of the sun. It crossed the sun's disk like a little black marble might slip along on a fine, invisible wire. It moved along the lower third of the sun's disk.

"After lunch at home, we returned to our positions in school yard. How the children marveled at the change in the location of the black spot! It was now much closer to the other rim of the sun.

Group Votes Increases for Pensioned Veterans

WASHINGTON - (U.P.) - The senate finance committee has approved two bills granting cost-ofiving increases to pensioned war veterans. One bill would increase the pensions for service-connected disabilities by 15 per cent. The other would increase pensions for non-service connected disabilities from $40 to $50 n month.
