Scorpion Stings Any Victim Which Shows Fight People often speak of spiders

as insects, but scientists do not class them as members of the insect tribe. Along with scorpions, they are known as "arachnids." a Greek name which means "spiders." In a Greek story a woman named Arachne dared to test her skill in spinning against the goddess Athena. The story goes on to say that she was punished by being turned into a spider Scorpions do not make webs, but they are cousins of spiders.

Some of them grow to a greater length than any spider. Most scorpions live in the Torrid Zone. Some are found on plains or deserts in the Temper- they get together, they "eat each ate Zones, but they are more other up." common in the tropics.
