

Abbott, Costello Show "Well-Posted" On Thursday

Bud Abbott and Lou Costello, who have been keeping themselves posted on post-war matters, by the simple practice of reading the posters in front of the post office, take their regular Thursday night post at Station WEAF, Thursday at 9 p. m. Lima time (post meridian) to give their attention, post haste, to such post-war problems as may arise. The comedy pair will be joined, in half an hour of fun and music, by Connie Haines and Fred Rich's orchestra.

Dinah's Open House takes on the appearance of a "mad house," when hostess Dinah Shore welcomes strong-stylist Dorothy Lamour and man-chasing Vera Vague as guest stars on her broadcast over WEAF at 7.30 p. m., on Thursday.

Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians will salute the popular music composer Jerome Kern on his Thursday night broadcast. The half-hour airshow is heard regularly at 6 p. m. over WJZ. Starting Thursday, Jan. 4, Waring will move his airtime to 9 p. m. over WJZ.

"Professor" Jerry Colonna will have the opportunity to give his "baritone of baritones" a workout when he appears with Bing Crosby on the Music Hall Thursday at 8 p. m. over WEAF. Eugene Baird, John Scott Trotter and the orchestra are regular features on the half-hour show.

Lana Turner Back In Films With Production At Ohio

One of the year's top casts in one of the better motion pictures. That's the way to describe "Marriage is a Private Affair" in which Lana Turner makes a welcome return to the screen at the Ohio theatre, Friday, after a considerably long absence.

When victory is won and the boys come marching home, it's anybody's guess that they'll have some unexpected competition in the matrimonial department, and from no other source than that gallant army of aimless women—the WIVES who follow them, hand in hand, from camp to camp until their loved ones are sent overseas.

Now the story has been made into a gay screen treat and is opening at the Quilna theatre, Friday under the title of "In the Meantime, Darling."

"The Great Moment" now playing at the Sigma theatre presents the problems that confronted the Boston dentist Dr. W. L. G. Morton, who made a hundred apologetic mistakes before he made the hall of fame. Played by Joel McCrea, Dr. Morton strives to give to humanity an anesthetic against pain only to be met with criticism and abuse.

The man who forakes the lives of his friends in order to save himself from punishment, is not only foolish but his acts will soon catch up with him. This is exactly what happens in the show now playing at the State theatre under the title "The Conspirators" with Hedy Lamarr and Paul Henreid.

Even in Hollywood where persons not connected with the making of motion pictures do not consider they have come to admire, sympathize with or sincerely hate actors who are not typed, to see a couple of guys who aren't typed, see "Spook Town" now playing at the Loric theatre.

HEADS PARALYSIS DRIVE

ST. MARYS, Dec. 14—Mrs. Arthur Katterhenrich of Cridersville was named as chairman of the Infantile Paralysis drive for funds in January at a meeting of the Auglaizee society. Mrs. Katterhenrich and Mrs. Glen J. Steve, treasurer of the society, will attend a meeting in Toledo called in the interests of arrangements for the campaign.
