Great Courage Marks New Feature At Ohio Theatre

Fashioned with warmth and tenderness, poignant moments of unforgettable courage, startling as the truth itself is the newest screen drama, "Pride of the Marines," which opens Friday at the Ohio theatre.

The true saga of Al Schmid seems to have been heven from the bedrock of the human spirit. His was a normal and healthy manhood, flavored with bowling, coon hunting, jalopy riding and many other things. He thought little of politics and what they did on the other sides of the oceans was their business--not his. But Dec. 7, 1941, changed his view of life. Here is the story that was long in coming... and in its passing... must never be forgotten.

Coming down the home stretch as a winner for the East Side kids is the film "Mr. Muggs Rides Again" opening Friday at the Quilna theatre. The film currently showing is "A Thousand and One Nights" with Cornal Wilde, Evelyn Keyes, Adele Jergens and Phil Silvers.

moving rapidly is Phil Silvers, who in this film, plays the role of a guy born 1,200 years before his time.

Jack Oakie and Peggy Ryan are back at their old tricks in "That's the Spirit," the new picture currently playing at the Sigma theatre. Oakie is cast as a vaudeville villain who marries and then dies at an early age. After spending a couple of years in that celestial dome, better known as heaven, he decides to come down to earth to get his daughter out of some very precarious situations.

No one could forget that spine tingling yell that sounds like the scream of a frightened person. Now it has come to the State theatre in the person of Johnny Weissmuller who plays Tarzan in the film, "Tarzan and the Amazons." You'll thrill to the heroic exploits of this jungle man and his methods of keeping a secret which might have set the world agog.

That man who kept things in pretty much of a turmoil in the 1920's finally reached the stopping point in his notorious career when he was cut down by police in a

Inside Story Of Radar Will Be Related On ASF Broadcast

Radar, the mechanical bloodhound which finds enemy ships, airplanes and fortifications thru darkness, fog or camouflage, will be the subject of the Army Service Forces "Weapons for Victory" in its broadcast Thursday at 5 p. m. over WABC. Only the final defeat of Japan has made it possible to tell the real inside story of radar, one of the most carefully guarded secret weapons of World War II.

What makes a killer? That question is the basis of Peter Lorre's starring vehicle, "Nobody Loves Me" when the movie horror specialist guest stars on "Suspense" Thursday at 8 p. m. over Station WABC. In this unusual story by Herbert Clyde Lewis, Lorre is heard as a well-known killer, whose latest victim is a wealthy girl, supposedly kidnapped and killed. As the killer tells his story to a police captain, the reason for his career as an enemy of society is revealed. So is a startling fact about his latest crime.

Arlene Francis, "Blind Date" mistress of ceremonies, keeps a

Youth Is Named Keeper Of Peace

CHICAGO, Aug. 30--(UP)—Beginning today, 12-year-old Carroll Hood, Jr., is the official keeper of the peace at the Hood home.

Carroll looked on quietly yesterday when his mother and father appeared before Judge Charles E. Byrne in a suit for alimony. Finally, he ventured to say that he wanted his dad and mother together again if they would "quit fussing."

The judge thought it over for a few minutes, then told the boy, "I will appoint you a friend of the court to report back to me if your parents do any more fussing."

The Hoods, Mildred, 33, and her husband, Carroll, 40, agreed to the proposal, and the divorce suit was dismissed.

perilous appointment when she aids "Stonewall" Scott in solving "The Case of the Amiable Assassin," the "Mystery in the Air" thriller to be heard on Thursday at 10 p. m. over Station WEAFF. During the celebration of surrender day in Times Square, two ex-servicemen get into a fight over a girl, which results in one of them being killed. "Stonewall's" sleuthing reveals that there were many sinister reasons for the killing, and he almost becomes Exhibit A in a new case by the time the mystery is solved. Jackson Beck portrays "Stonewall" Scott, and Ken MacGregor directs the series. Ted Raph conducts the background music.
