PUEBLO, Colo.—(I.R)—Lack of girth control was the undoing of Albert Townley, 37, of Herrin, Ill., when he stole three dress shirts from a Pueblo department store. Policeman Pete Buchi noticed Townley early in the day, as he was walking down a Pueblo street. An hour or so later, the man again caught Buchi's eye, but this time his waistline had expanded considerably. The loot had been concealed in Townley's waist.
