

'Sister' Film Opens Friday For Engagement at Ohio

The story of a singer who makes the transition from a cheap Bowery music hall to grand opera serves as a showcase for the talents of such varied performers as Kathryn Grayson, June Allyson, Lauritz Melchior, Jimmy Durante and Peter Lawford in "Two Sisters from Boston" opening at the Ohio theatre Friday.

Cast in the role of Abigail, Kathryn Grayson plays the role of the ambitious sister who abandons her straight-laced Back Bay background in the attempt to crash the sacred portals of a New York opera house, to a T. Others in the cast also turn in praiseworthy performances.

Bowing out at the Quilna is the film "Do You Love Me" which has been greeted with open arms by audiences for the past week, to allow "Perilous Holiday" and "Talk About a Lady" two new films to come in.

"Breakfast in Hollywood" continues its stay at the Sigma until Saturday. Starring Tom Breneman in his original role as master of ceremonies of the popular radio show, the film is a delightful story of just what does happen when a man wears a woman's hat all thru a radio show. To see nothing of the romantic angles of the film which also has Bonita Granville as a star.

George Raft and Ava Gardner have the leading roles of the film, "Whistle Stop" now showing at the State. The film tells the story of two people drawn to each other by a love so strange, it is nearly incomprehensible to them. Sharing the billing is "City for Conquest."

"Ambush Trail" and "The Shadow Returns" are the current features at the Lyric theatre. Coming to the show house Saturday night are "Sunbonnet Sue" and "Gentle Annie."

"Isle of Forgotten Sin" has John Carradine in the leading role. Now showing at the Allen, Buster Crabbe has the featured role of the film sharing the billing, "Mysterious Riders."

"Murder, He Says" with Fred MacMurray is due for a comeback at the Majestic Friday with "The Brighton Strangler" with John Loder as the star. The former is unusually amusing while the latter will play upon the interests of those who like mystery films.

"Gay Senorita" with Inez Palenbourg will open at the Lima Drive-In Friday while "Red Dragon" is the co-feature. At the Gloria Drive-In Friday will be "Goin' to Town" with Lum and Abner.
