ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

By HASKIN

A reader can get the answer to any question of fact by writing The Long Beach Press-Telegram Information Bureau, 525 E. 2nd St., N. W., Washington 25, D. C. Please enclose three 30-cent stamps for return postage.

Q. When did agitation for an eight-hour work day begin? P. 1.

A. Agitation by labor for an eight-hour day began about 1888 but did not succeed until after the first World War. Before the Industrial Revolution, workdays of 12, 14 or 16 hours were common and later a 10-hour day, six days a week, constituted the normal working period in Europe and the United States.

Q. Have scientists ever traced the origin of the curse that was supposed to afflict the men who discovered the tomb of Tutankhamen? W. R. L.

A. The legend of the "curse" is not accepted by scientists and no accredited Egyptologist has considered it worthy of investigation. The tomb was cleared of most of its treasure but the mummy of Tutankhamen was restored to its chamber therein.

Q. What is the purpose of musk in perfume? L. Q.

A. It is a fixative which blends and exalts all other perfume materials. Musk is very powerful and sweet, and is said to be the most fascinating of all odors to human beings.

Q. How wide is the Gulf Stream at Miami and Pompano, Florida? J. B.

A. The U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey says that off Miami and Pompano the Gulf Stream is confined to the Straits of Florida and its width is very nearly that of the straits. Northward of the Straits of Florida its boundaries are indefinite, their positions shifting somewhat with changing seasons and weather condition.

Answer to Question No. 1

Psychologist L. M. Terman and associates found such women like and dislike, rather than the things men like and dislike, than the traits women usually like and dislike. They are fond of business management, vigorous sports, politics and admiring strong public characters. Not much interested in dresses, hats, children, cooking, housekeeping etc. Usually fine women—but masculine in personality.

Answer to Question No. 2

No. Psychologist Gardner Murphy shows in his magnificent new book, "Personality," all traits are inherited and all are acquired. They are due to the interaction of environment and heredity. If you had not inherited vocal chords you could not speak. But what you say is dependent partly on your inherited intelligence and disposition and partly on your environment and education.

Answer to Question No. 3

No. One biologist sent a list of such questions to high school students in 34 states who had had at least one course in animal and plant life. One half believed oysters are fishes, 60 per cent that bees gather honey from flowers, that a bat is blind and stings have five points!!! Eighty per cent could not define the difference between plants and animals!

ARE YOU SELF-CONSCIOUS

If you are, you are handicapped in your progress in happiness and sociality. You are less likely to be successful in your social contacts.

MCKENNEY ON BRIDGE

By WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY

Chicago was given representation by the American Contract Bridge League this year when William McGhee was elected one of the league's vice presidents. McGhee is a life master and a prominent contestant in the Central States regional championships being held this week in Chicago.

It is not often that a player recognizes the possibility of a squeeze play at trick No. 1. When the opening lead of the diamond queen came around to McGhee (South) on today's hand, he played the four-spot.

Generally a player who is ne'er lacking will win the first trick and hold off on the second. McGhee said later that he saw the possibility of a squeeze. West continued with the jack of diamonds and McGhee won.

You can see now that there was no trouble to make three no trump, but in tournament bridge you have to make the maximum number of tricks. McGhee could give up heart trick and hope that the hearts would break three-three, or he could knock out the ace of clubs and hope spades would break three-three.

However, he decided to hope that four hearts and four spades were in one hand; so at trick three he led the king of clubs. When West refused to win it, he continued with the five of clubs. West won this trick and played the ten of diamonds, on which East discarded the seven of clubs.

This was the start of the squeeze play. McGhee won with the king of diamonds, went to dummy with the spade queen and cashed the two good clubs. East discarded the seven of hearts at trick seven, but at trick eight he was helpless. If he let go a spade, dummy's eight would be good. If he let go the nine of hearts, McGhee's eight would win, giving him five no trump.

city" he wrote 160 years ago, "we shall become as corrupt as in Europe, and go to eating one another as they do there."

While city life isn't utopia for all its dwellers, the outlook isn't being that dark. Corruption isn't being accepted as inevitable and there is a vision to build a city of tomorrow of a character that even Mr. Jefferson could accept with equanimity. —Chichnall Post.
