By WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY

There are few who would deny that Mrs. Margaret Wagar of Atlanta, Ga., and Mrs. Helen Sobel of New York are one of the strongest women pairs in the country.

They went right on the next afternoon to win the masters mixed team-of-four with Charles H. Goran and John R. Crawford.

She did not attempt to cash the king of diamonds, but led a small diamond, which Crawford ruffed. He read the situation and led back a club, which Mrs. Wagar trumped.

Before declaring had taken a trick he had been set three tricks. If he had gone up with dummy's ace of spades and guessed the singleton king of clubs he could have made his contract easily.

WHAT OTHERS ARE SAYING

THE REPUBLICANS have no thought of imposing a general sales tax. Such a charge is merely a political smoke-screen. The New Deal must be in desperate straits when they resort to such distortion.

CONCERNING labor's lot in the year past there are conflicting schools of thought. That clanking sound, which one ascribes to chains forged by Taft-Hartley, is identified by the other as a pocketful of dough.

SOME are saying they don't mind inflation because it feels so good when it stops, and this was so, it would be the first time in history.

A YANK is deported from Britain following conviction as a "biemisher of the peace," a status only of one degree higher than that of an escutcheon-blotter.

BELL AIRCRAFT has designed a three-horsepower wheelbarrow, a great labor-saver, which takes care of just about everything unless they motorize the office pencil-sharpener.

TRILLION WAR

AIRPLANES now being manufactured for the government are costing about three times as much as those in the last war. That is average costs in the service categories have roughly trebled.

If the same holds true in other items of fighting equipment, the next war—if there is one—would cost a pretty penny.

The United States expended $250,000,000,000 in World War II. With triple costs, a war of the same duration and magnitude could cost as much as $750,000,000,000. If it lasted longer or if costs mounted, it would come to the next stop in astronomical finance—a war costing one trillion dollars.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Answer to Question No. 1 No. Psychologist Robert Hop-

Yes, in the "Harvard Growth Study" under direction of Psychologists Dearborn and Lincoln, 3000 children were measured frequently in their growth in body, mind and personality for over 15 years.

Answer to Question No. 2 Many reasons. 1. Most widows are past the best marrying age.

2. Many are left with money and don't wish to take on a man to support. 3. Many have had an unhappy marriage and don't want to try another.

4. Men tend to marry younger than themselves (although recently a reversed tendency has set in). However, the older man become, the greater is their tendency to marry young women, which leaves the widows out.

Answer to Question No. 3 Yes, in the "Harvard Growth Study" under direction of Psychologists Dearborn and Lincoln, 3000 children were measured frequently in their growth in body, mind and personality for over 15 years.

Measurements taken in early childhood only moderately predicted what sort of human being a child would be in his teen age. They found he not only differs from other children but gradually differs from himself. Parents should know this.
