These stones, together with a small drill would be delivered to him in his cabin on the night he was scheduled to sail back by a couple of confiderates who were apparently federates who were apparently federates who were apparently there for a little bon voyage party. Then, when the boat was out at sea, he would drill a couple of holes in the walls or floor of his stateroom, insert the stones, fix up the holes so nobody would notice them, and drop the tools overboard. And when the ship docked in New York, he would leave the jewels in the cabin, and let the inspecin the cabin, and let the inspec-tors search his baggage and ask all the questions they pleased.

Then, a few weeks or a few months later, he'd book passage on the same liner, request the same stateroom, and the night of the sailing another set of confederates would come aboard for another bon voyage party.

It was as simple as all that, because no one in the Department ever thought of searching the friends who came to see a

Let's Explore Your Mind

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. Sc.

Neither one primarily, because men create nearly all the styles and the women select from among these creations either the ones they like best or the ones in the "latest style." Of course within this narrow range of choice they select the ones they think the most becoming. Psychologist Knight Dunlap says the reason why most styles are cre-ated by men and accepted by women is that both are interested in helghtening feminine beau-ty. Men are as deeply interested in that as women.
