

Musical Series Set to Move West

By FRED H. RUSSELL

Byron Palmer and Jean We'dor, two of Hollywood's most popular singers, will take over the master of ceremonies and singing assignments on CBS' radio "On Sunday Afternoon," which the award-winning series moves to Hollywood from New York on Sunday, May 29.

The program, which made its debut in 1942 as a summer series and so intrigued the vast out-of-home listening audience that it has become a regular Sunday feature of the CBS radio schedule during the past year, will feature the CBS Hollywood Radio orchestra as well as top records of the day and guests from the entertainment world of radio, television and motion pictures.

The series, heard at 4:05 p.m., provide light musical numbers, news flashes, sports information, weather and traffic reports and safety messages directed to the great audience of Sunday drivers, vacationers at parks and beaches, and Mr. and Mrs. Outdoor America and their families.

STORE EXPERTS

Gimbels may not tell Macy's but "Tomorrow" is going to tell its viewers of the career opportunities that the field of merchandising offers to young Americans tonight on WABC-TV at 8 o'clock.

Narrator Lillian Poole will have managers of several nationally known stores as his guests to demonstrate the work in department stores. They will also discuss the skills needed for this type of work and the training supplied on the job.

The program is presented by Johns Hopkins University.

CIVIL WAR

Dr. Richard B. Morris, professor of American history at Columbia University, makes his second successive "Camera Three" appearance to continue the study of the American Civil War tomorrow over Channel 2 at 11:30 a.m.

The program, the second in a series titled "The Irreversible Conflict," will cover "The War Years: Bull Run to Gettysburg." Dr. Morris will examine the main actions that took place from the beginning of the war until July 1863, when the defeat of Gen. Robert E. Lee at Gettysburg pretty much turned the tide against the Confederacy. He will also show how most of these battles served to make the soldiers on both sides veterans of 19th century battle techniques.

The following Sunday, May 29, "Camera Three" will begin a four-part dramatization of Stephen Crane's great Civil War novel, "The Red Badge of Courage."

SHOW TO MOVE

"Biographies in Sound," the series of personality portraits on NBC radio, will shift to a new time spot next month.

The program now heard on Sundays at 7 p.m., will change with the advent of the "Monitor" (NBC's weekend radio innovation) to Tuesdays at 9 p.m., beginning June 14. The last Sunday program will be heard on June 5.
